Maximum deferred sales charge	0.00%
Maximum sales charge (load) imposed on reinvested dividends	0.00%

Annual Fund Operating Expenses (expenses that you pay each year as a percentage of the value of your investment)

Example

This example is intended to help you compare the cost of investing in the Fund with the cost of investing in other mutual funds.

The example assumes that you invest $10,000 in the Fund for the time periods indicated and then redeem all of your shares at the end of those periods. The example also assumes that your investment has a 5% return each year and that the Fund's total operating expenses (net of fee waivers and/or expense reimbursements for the periods noted above) remain the same. Although your actual costs may be higher or lower, based on the assumptions your costs would be:

	R CLASS
1 Year	$187
3 Years	$610
5 Years	$1,059
10 Years	$2,305

Portfolio Turnover

The Fund pays transaction costs, such as commissions, when it buys and sells securities (or "turns over" its portfolio). A higher portfolio turnover rate may indicate higher transaction costs and may result in higher taxes when Fund shares are held in a taxable account. These costs, which are not reflected in annual fund operating expenses or in the example, affect the Fund's performance. During the most recent fiscal year, the Fund's portfolio turnover rate was 65% of the average value of its portfolio.

Royce Small-Cap Leaders Fund

Principal Investment Strategy

Royce & Associates, LP (“Royce”), the Fund’s investment adviser, invests the Fund’s assets primarily in a limited number (generally up to 100) of equity securities of small-cap companies with stock market capitalizations up to $3 billion. Royce selects securities of “leading” companies—those that in its view are trading at attractive valuations that also have excellent business strengths, strong balance sheets, and/or improved prospects for growth, as well as those with the potential for improvement in cash flow levels and internal rates of return.

Normally, the Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets in equity securities of companies with stock market capitalizations up to $3 billion at the time of investment. Although the Fund normally focuses on securities of U.S. companies, it may invest up to 25% of its net assets (measured at the time of investment) in securities of companies headquartered in foreign countries. The Fund may invest in other investment companies that invest in equity securities. The Fund may sell securities to, among other things, secure gains, limit losses, redeploy assets into what Royce deems to be more promising opportunities, and/or manage cash levels in the Fund’s portfolio.

Primary Risks for Fund Investors

As with any mutual fund that invests in common stocks, Royce Small-Cap Leaders Fund is subject to market risk—the possibility that common stock prices will decline over short or extended periods of time. As a result, the value of your investment in the Fund will fluctuate, sometimes sharply and unpredictably, and you could lose money over short or long periods of time.

The prices of small-cap securities are generally more volatile than those of larger-cap securities. In addition, because small-cap securities tend to have significantly lower trading volumes than larger-cap securities, the Fund may have difficulty selling holdings or may only be able to sell holdings at prices substantially lower than what Royce believes they are worth. Therefore, the Fund may involve considerably more risk of loss and its returns may differ significantly from funds investing in larger-cap companies or other asset classes. The Fund’s investment in a limited number of issuers and its potential industry and sector overweights may also involve more risk to investors than a more broadly diversified portfolio of small-cap securities because it may be more susceptible to any single corporate, economic, political, regulatory, or market event.

Investment in foreign securities involves risks that may not be encountered in U.S. investments, including adverse political, social, economic, or other developments that are unique to a particular region or country. Prices of foreign securities in particular countries or regions may, at times, move in a different direction and/or be more volatile than those of U.S. securities. Because the Fund does not intend to hedge its foreign currency exposure, the U.S. dollar value of the Fund’s investments may be harmed by declines in the value of foreign currencies in relation to the U.S. dollar.

Royce’s estimate of a company’s current worth may prove to be inaccurate, or this estimate may not be recognized by other investors, which could lead to portfolio losses. Securities in the Fund’s portfolio may not increase as much as the market as a whole and some securities may continue to be undervalued for long periods of time.

Investments in the Fund are not bank deposits and are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or any other government agency.

Performance

The following performance information provides an indication of the risks of investing in the Fund. Past performance does not indicate how the Fund will perform in the future. The Calendar Year Total Returns chart shows performance year by year over the last ten years. The Annualized Total Returns table shows how the Fund’s average annual total returns for various periods compare with those of the Russell 2000 Index, the Fund’s benchmark index. The R Class commenced operations on May 15, 2008. Performance information prior to this date is for Service Class shares, not offered in this Prospectus. The returns differ only to the extent that the Classes have different expenses because all Classes invest in the same portfolio of securities. The R Class has higher distribution expenses than the Service Class. If R Class’s expenses had been reflected, total returns prior to May 15, 2008 would have been lower.

Calendar Year Total Returns

R Class (%)

During the period shown in the bar chart, the highest return for a calendar quarter was 23.29% (quarter ended 6/30/09) and the lowest return for a calendar quarter was -23.62% (quarter ended 9/30/11).

The table also presents the impact of taxes on the Fund’s returns. In calculating these figures, we assumed that the shareholder was in the highest federal income tax bracket in effect at the time of each distribution of income or capital gains. We did not consider the impact of state or local income taxes. Your after-tax returns depend on your tax situation, so they may differ from the returns shown. This information does not apply if your investment is in a 401(k) plan or is otherwise tax deferred because such accounts are subject to income taxes only upon distribution. Current month-end performance information may be obtained at www.roycefunds.com or by calling Investor Services at (800) 221-4268.

Financial Intermediary Compensation
